

On the beach, in a boat, Hollywood is history

▶ MANZANILLO

Continued from Page M1

tered swimming pool enclosed by graceful white arches. As we bid Rafael goodbye, he slipped us the electronic key card he used to open the room as a souvenir.

Manzanillo can thank Hollywood for creating its aura of palm-fringed bliss. Since the movie's debut, this coastal stretch of the small state of Colima has burgeoned into a commercial patchwork of beachfront hotels, vacation homes, souvenir shops, and surfside restaurants. The main tourist area wraps around two crescent-shaped bays, Manzanillo and Santiago, which are separated by the Santiago Peninsula's steep outcropping of rocks. Volcanic hills to the east create a sweeping backdrop. Golfers are attracted by three world-class golf courses that offer stunning views of cool lagoons or mist-shrouded mountains.

After rekindling "10" memories at Las Hadas, we continued our nostalgic journey by driving down to La Audiencia beach, overlooking Santiago Bay. It was here that George first caught sight of Jenny in her swimsuit. We quickly discovered that both time and tourism have changed the once-pristine setting. High-rise hotels now tower above the swath of golden sand, and a cad-

PHOTOS BY CLAUDIA R. CAPOS/FOR THE BOSTON GLOBE

Decades after "10" was filmed on La Audiencia Beach, Manzanillo has many more tourists and many more accommodations. Yet its beaches, its food, its fun, its surroundings and places like Las Hadas (below), where the "10" trysters met, retain their allure.

re of colorful beach umbrellas march toward the surf. Offshore, freighters and container vessels ply the waters of the shipping channel bound for the sprawling seaport northeast of downtown. At times smog from industrial smokestacks tinges the blue sky.

It's not surprising that Manzanillo developed first as a commercial center and later as a vacation destination. In the 16th and 17th centuries, the area played an important role in exploration, and several expeditions to the Orient were launched from its shores. Today, city life revolves around the municipal mercado at the intersection of Independencia and Cuauhtémoc streets and dozens of small family-run shops in the historic central district. When we arrived in midmorning, the market was in full swing, with music blaring and voices shouting above the din. Stalls overflowed with fruits and vegetables. Men filleted giant red snapper while women chopped chicken. Upstairs, we stopped to buy fresh fruit juice and a CD of mariachi music.

In November avid fishermen descended upon this self-proclaimed sailfish capital of the world when Manzanillo hosts its international sailfish tournament. A modernistic sculpture of a blue sailfish soars gracefully above the city's harborside park and serves as its signature emblem. Local outfitters offer fishing excursions in pursuit of trophy catch, as well as snorkeling and scuba-diving trips, glass-bottom-boat tours, and off-road ATV motoring.

Last spring, Tracey and Keith Manbeck flew here with five other couples from Albany, Ohio. They lived like "real movie stars" in a luxury villa in the La Punta district. During their weeklong stay they dined on authentic dishes prepared by the in-house chef and sipped cold Mexican beer and tequila sunrises served by the resident bartender. In midweek, the husbands hired a local captain and a deep-sea fishing boat for a day. They returned sunburned with 500 pounds of fish, a portion of which the chef served for dinner. "It was a real thrill," said Keith, who was a first-time fisherman. "The captain knew exactly where to go. Pulling the fish into the boat was fun, and a lot of work. They were real fighters."

Manzanillo's commercialism drops away quickly once you leave the city for the countryside. We drove northwest along coastal Highway 200 past brilliant yellow primavera trees and open-air fruit stands, and made frequent meandering detours to explore some of the secluded beach towns that Hollywood overlooked. Cuastecomates was barely stirring when we stopped early in the morning and walked toward the sea to admire the town's horseshoe bay ringed by purple-gray mountains.

After a winding drive through the mountains, we reached La Manzanilla, where gold flecks sparkled in the hard-packed sand and the beach stretched as far as the eye could see. A local fisherman mending his nets suggested we walk to the far edge of town to glimpse the crocodiles lounging in the mangroves behind a rickety chain-link fence. Barra de Navidad proved our favorite beach stop. This lively resort town straddles a sandy spit of land dividing the crashing waves of the ocean from the glassy waters of an inland lagoon. We shopped for painted masks, decorative metalwork, and highly polished silver jewelry, and then walked barefoot for a mile through unspoiled sand along the seacoast.

During lunch, we ran into Minneapolis resident Kristy Hagner at the Sea Master restaurant. Over beer and guacamole and chips, she explained why she and her husband, Dave, returned with their family for a second visit. "We like the warm weather and the beaches, and the food is fabulous," she said. "It's great to be outside in the sunshine during the winter when it's cold and snowy up in Minneapolis." The Hagners and friends had rented a large cabin cruiser for the day to take them from Manzanillo up the coast to Barra de Navidad for swimming and fishing.

When stiff ocean breezes ruffled the surf later that afternoon, we switched to the inland waterway and rented a launch to take us on a 40-minute ride around the lagoon. Our boatman ferried us across the channel to the palatial Grand Bay Hotel-Isla Navi-

If you go . . .

What to do

Ecological Center of Cuyutlán

Cuyutlán
www.headformexico.com/tortugario.html
View sea turtles and iguanas and take a boat ride through the mangrove tunnels and tranquil Palo Verde lagoon. Monday-Sunday, 8 a.m.-5 p.m. Entry fee $2.50. Boat ride about $10.

El Chanal archeological zone

Colima
This pre-Hispanic city flourished between 1100 and 1400 AD and covers more than 120 acres. Although the ruins of its pyramids, plazas, central altars, and ballgame courts are not as spectacular as others in Mexico, it's well worth seeing. Tuesday-Sunday 10 a.m.-6 p.m.

Antares Nautica Water Sports

La Audiencia Beach
This beachside outfitter offers rentals of small fishing boats and wave runners, and tour boat rides and scuba diving and snorkeling excursions.

Where to stay

Las Hadas

Avenue Vista Hermosa
Manzanillo
888-559-4329
www.brisas.com.mx/
Reminiscent of an exotic sun-bleached Moorish village. Championship golf course, 10 tennis courts, water sports, and a private 70-slip marina for deep-sea fishing excursions. Standard double $280.

Grand Bay Hotel-Isla Navidad

Ciudad de los Marineros
Manzanillo
877-999-3223
www.wyndham.com/hotels/ZLOGB/main.wnt
Lush gardens, quiet canals and pools, scenic views of Barra de Navidad, and a 27-hole golf course. Doubles from $339.

Where to eat

L'Recif

Cerro del Cenicero
Manzanillo
011-52-314-335-0900
www.lrecif.com
Perched high along the Pacific and renowned for its gourmet international cuisine. November-April for dinner only, $14-$34.

Los Delfines

Avenue Vista Hermosa
Manzanillo
888-559-4329
www.brisas.com.mx/
Savor red snapper and several variations of ceviche at this outdoor restaurant. Lunch and buffet-style dinner, $8.50-$29.

dad Resort, the centerpiece of a 1,200-acre private island. From the boat dock, we walked to Mary's Restaurant, a popular open-air bistro overlooking the estuary, and savored a dinner of fresh lobster, the house specialty.

Our exploration of Manzanillo and its surroundings revealed more romantic settings well worth considering as film locations, should Hollywood make a sequel to "10." One afternoon we drove about 20 miles south to the Ecological Center of Cuyutlán, known locally as El Tortugario, and climbed aboard a small wooden boat for an enchanting ride through the mangrove tunnels and tranquil waters of the Palo Verde Estuary. Another day, we wound our way through the mountains on back roads past lush mango and papaya groves and family-run salt flat mining operations to the state capital of Colima, a traditional city basking in the shadow of far-off volcanoes. After touring the 16th-century cathedral and nearby Armaments Museum, we settled into an outdoor cafe table at the Hotel Ceballos overlooking Libertad Garden, a delightful park with a lacy white gazebo and dappled walkways.

But the sun and surf drew us repeatedly back to the coast. During dinner on the terrace at L'Recif, a gourmet restaurant perched high on the Jaluapan Peninsula, we gazed at the rugged black rocks far below. After a scarlet sunset, a tiny sliver of moon emerged above the cliffs and cast a beam on our table. It was one of those made-for-movies moments that etch Manzanillo in your memory.

Claudia R. Capos can be reached at capocomm@sbcglobal.net.

ITALY CITY STAYS (AIR, 4 NTS, HTL) from $449
Rome from $449, Florence from $469, Venice from $459 Sorrento from $599. Plus tax. Book now!
Good for travel thru 3/31/09. Incl. breakfast.
OUR 2009 EUROPE TRIPS ON SALE NOW
Apr. Sch. Vac.: Costa 4th Sol $2099 Sorrento & Rome $2399, Tuscany $2159 very inclusive!

DURGAN TRAVEL SERVICE - STONEHAM, MA
781-438-2224 1-800-234-9959
Sign up for email specials at www.durgantravel.com

R A TRAVEL Since 1976

RIO/SAOPALL.....280	WEST AFRICA.....370
LONDON/DUBLIN...140-189	NAIROBI.....359
PARIS/BERMAY...179	TOKYO.....298
SOUTH AMERICA...290	CALIFORNIA...99
TELANV.....339	FLORIDA.....79
CAIRO/CAS.....310	MEXICO.....149
AUSTRALIA.....498	ITALY/SPAIN...189
SOUTH AFRICA...375	DELHI/BOMBAY...385

1(800)788-0777 1(212)633-9300 www.ratravel.com

21 Days, Cruise Caribbean, Atlantic, Europe, plus Tour London and Paris in springtime!
Save on this REPOSITIONING CRUISE! MSC Cruise Lines has to get the newer "state-of-the-art" LIRICA from Ft. Lauderdale to Dover. Take advantage of this exclusive YMT package departing April 23 sailing 16 nights to San Juan, Puerto Rico; Ft. de France, Martinique; Funchal, Madeira; Lisbon, Portugal; Vigo, Spain; Le Havre, France and Dover, England. Your tour includes sightseeing from Dover to London, two nights in London with sightseeing, Euro Star train under the English Channel to Paris (two-nights with sightseeing). Depart Paris May 13. $3575 includes airfare from Boston, taxes, ship fuel surcharge, 16 day cruise, tour; per person, double occupancy.
For information, reservations, and brochure call 7 days a week:
YMT Vacations Affordable travel since 1967! 1-800-736-7300

Celebrity Cruises to South America and the Panama Canal.
A beautiful tango between sun-drenched lands and incomparable onboard service.

Celebrity X Cruises®
Starring You

From $899***
13, 14 or 15-night Eastbound and Westbound Panama Canal cruise | Inside Stateroom per person on CELEBRITY INFINITY™, CELEBRITY MERCURY™ or CELEBRITY CONSTELLATION™

From $999***
14 or 15-night South America cruise from Buenos Aires, Argentina to Valparaiso, Chile | Inside Stateroom per person on CELEBRITY INFINITY™

Celebrity Cruisetour
Enhance your South American adventure with a multi-night Celebrity Cruisetour, combining land and cruise for a 19-night journey.

From $4,249***
19-night South America Cruisetour | Inside Stateroom per person on CELEBRITY INFINITY™

*FOR N. AMERICAN RESERVATIONS, A FUEL SUPPLEMENT OF $10.00 PER PERSON, PER DAY FOR THE FIRST 2 GUESTS IN A STATEROOM APPLIES; EACH ADDITIONAL GUEST IN THE STATEROOM WILL BE CHARGED $5.00 PER PERSON, PER DAY.

Ports of call may include Acapulco, Cabo San Lucas, Buenos Aires, Montevideo, and Valparaiso.

Rio de Janeiro, Brazil

Voted the World's Best Large Ships by Condé Nast Traveler for the sixth year in a row (2002-2007 Condé Nast Traveler Cruise Poll)

To book a cruise or cruisetour, contact our travel partner, call 888-307-8485 or go to celebritycruises.com.

Hurry and book your South America Cruisetour by 12/31/08 and receive a $300 onboard credit.**

24/7 Customer Service
travelocity 1-800-222-3690 Lowest Prices Guaranteed
www.travelocity.com/cruise

*All prices are per person, double occupancy, cruise only (unless Cruisetour is specified) on select sailings, and subject to availability. The Cruisetour price includes the 14-night South America cruise plus 5-night Easter Island pre-cruise package #1SAB. All itineraries and prices are subject to change without notice. All prices are in U.S. dollars. Governmental taxes and fees are extra. Certain restrictions apply. ©2008 Celebrity Cruises Inc. Ships' Registry: The Bahamas, Ecuador, and Malta. **Cruisetour must be booked between 11/1/08 and 12/31/08 on select Celebrity sailings to receive one $300 USD onboard credit per stateroom. Please reference South America option code MYC2.

The Azores - Nine Islands, Endless Adventures

Without question some of the most beautiful islands in the world.

AZORES
Just 4 hours away

Azores Packages starting at just $709*+tax per person for 6 nights hotel including non-stop air from Boston.

800-762-9995 www.SATA.pt